Pony Express riders hit Alamo trail today

PLEASANTON — "Riders, mount your horses and get the mail through to Alamo."

That'll be the call today at 2 p.m. when riders from four horsemen's associations rein their trusty steeds up to the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce offices on Neal Street.

Idea for the Pony Express relay race originated with former Pleasanton banker Ted Mann and the chamber. Mann is a member of the Moraga Horsemen's Association, one of the four participating groups in today's race from the chamber offices to the Alamo Post Office.

Brief festivities before the riders mount up will start at 1:45 p.m. at the Bicentennial Bandstand, next to the chamber offices.

Contestants in the Pleasanton Days beard-growing contest will be introduced and Mayor Bob Philcox will introduce the competing clubs. Chan Henderson, chamber secretary-manager, is in charge of the pre-race program.

Each rider will go one mile, turning his mail-filled saddle bags over to the next rider. Each club will have 21 riders to complete the route from Pleasanton to Alamo.

Riders will gallop down Main Street and enter the Arroyo del Valle near the Pleasanton Hotel. They will follow the Arroyo to Hopyard Road and then ride along Hopyard and back roads around Dublin to Danville, and then on to the Alamo Post Office.

Riders are expected in Alamo about 3:30 p.m.

Hot dogs, soft drinks and beer will be sold by Rotary Club members in Alamo, starting at 3:30. A street dance will follow.

All mail, and riders will be carrying at least 2,000 Bicentennial - theme envelopes with appropriate stationery, will be hand-stamped with the old "Alamo" postmark.

Trophies will be awarded in Alamo to each of the clubs.

The initial festivities in Pleasanton will include swearing-in of riders from the Moraga, Martinez, Hayward, and San Ramon Valley horsemen's associations as mail carriers by Pleasanton Postmaster Mark Foster. Presidents of the respective organizations will ride the initial mile.

Vineyard land uses under study

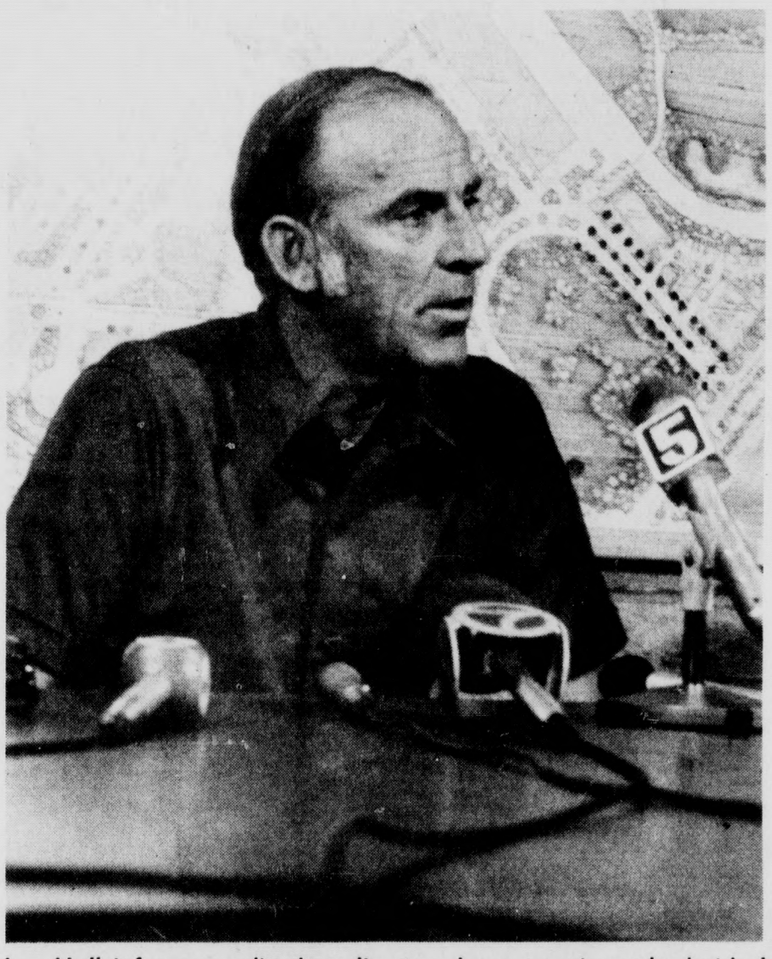

PLEASANTON — The Vineyard Avenue area will get some attention from the city council tomorrow night.

The council will look at a planning commission report on a review of land uses along Vineyard Avenue as well as a study of traffic on that street.

The planning commission initiated the study at the request of residents in the area who are concerned that development in the last three years or so has fed more traffic into the street than it can handle. Rezonings of undeveloped property in the area could cut the future densities and reduce future traffic problems, according to the planning staff.

Also on the agenda are a report of the planning commission reviewing land uses downtown west of Main Street, a review of parking requirements for multiple residences, a report on sewer allocations at the Sunol Sewage Treatment Plant, and a traffic report on the intersection of Woodthrush and Crestline streets.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the city council chambers, 30 W. Angela St.

Lee Hall informs media that directors have unanimously decided that Alameda County Fair should go on as scheduled.

Picket hurdle cleared

Fair wins 'green light'

PLEASANTON — Though pickets remained at some entrances to the Alameda County Fairgrounds, the 1976 County Fair will start as scheduled next Sunday.

The decision to go ahead was made uanimously by County Fair Association directors, meeting in executive session Friday morning at the Fairgrounds.

Only one nagging prospect remained uncertain Saturday, that of whether pari-mutuel clerks would sympathize with the county employees strike of the past three weeks. This would become a moot point, though, if a meeting tentatively scheduled for this afternoon at 2 p.m. takes place.

Service Employees International Union spokesmen, following the signing of a temporary restraining order by Judge Robert Barber Friday morning, said they would vote on a strike agreement this afternoon if the Board of Supervisors had responded to certain conditions by Friday evening.

Among the latter were that all unresolved issues be put to binding arbitration. In turn, the SEIU unions would donate one day's labor free in hopes of getting the Fair open on schedule.

At a press conference Friday noon, Fair Association secretary manager Lee Hall said several projects remained to be completed before the Fair opened — including lighting along the main entry way into the grounds, completion of the livestock judging arena, and lighting in one parking lot.

In a statement to the assemblage of newspaper, television and radio people present, Hall said "We owe a deep responsibility to the general public, exhibitors and youth exhibitors to see that this Fair goes on."

Hall said that the association is prepared to hold a race meeting, but added he had heard nothing from other unions since the restraining order was signed.

He commented that the association regards those union members who may still be at the gates as "informational pickets" only. In fact, the order stipulates informational picketing only and such designation must be visible to the public.

Hall was to contact the California Horse Racing Board Friday afternoon to learn their interpretation of the restraining order.

Settlement of the contract between Western Fairs Association and the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association was accomplished a week ago Saturday, two days before the start of the race meet at Solano County Fair.

Pleasanton has always been the major stop on the summer fair race schedule.

A Bicentennial - theme parade, sponsored by the Pleasanton Bicentennial Committee, will kickoff the Fair next Sunday at 12 noon. Highlight of the first day's activities at the Fairgrounds is the annual Maid of Alameda County Pageant at the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre Sunday night.

Supervisors to vote on new record budget

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — County supervisors will act on the proposed $407 million budget this Tuesday without knowing the financial impact of the 19-day-old service employe strike, board chairman Fred Cooper said Friday.

Cooper said he "can't tell" if the county is making or losing money from the walkout, and "won't ask for those (preliminary) figures" before the vote.

"A number of figures can't be determined yet," he said, including the costs of transferring patients back into hospitals, the overtime costs that will be necessary to catch up when workers return, and the State's bill for errors on the welfare rolls caused by the lack of personnel.

He said Santa Clara County reported a $150,000 loss after its last county employes' strike.

The figures will be ready "about three months after (the strikers) come back," he said, and used in computing the county tax rate.

If the county has lost money, it will have a smaller cash carry - over from this fiscal year; if it has saved money, it will show a larger balance.

County administrator Loren Enoch had claimed before the strike that the record budget could be financed with the existing $3.10 per $100 in assessed valuation and a 12 per cent county wide increase in property values.

Union officials claim the county saves about $1.6 million per month in strikers' salaries, but already has spent nearly $200,000 in overtime for sheriff's deputies' salaries. They claim the money spent could have gone toward meeting some of the union's demands.

Cooper said the board "doesn't care" whether or not it's making money off the strike. "We're not here to make money on it. We'd like to end the strike as soon as possible."

Union officials echo the same sentiments.

Strike at stalemate

County, union talks bog down

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The strike by 2,500 county service employes ends its third week apparently at a stalemate.

Any forecast for a quick end to the 19 - day - old walkout was recalled Friday when board of supervisors chairman Fred Cooper rejected a union offer of binding arbitration and claimed the union suffered a "total court defeat" when slapped with a temporary restraining order on picketing at the county fairgrounds.

The union earlier that day proposed submitting "all unresolved issues to binding mediation - arbitration."

They set a 6 p.m., Friday, deadline for acceptance, proposing marathon negotiations "to arrive at a mutually agreeable amnesty and back to work agreement."

The union's negotiating committee would have put the settlement before a general membership vote Sunday, and offered to "donate one day's labor to help open the fair on schedule."

Cooper charged the union with "a grandstand play" in making "the offer that is no offer at all."

"The court's order restricting picketing at the fair means that the issue is solely between the fair board, the union and the courts," he said.

Presiding Superior Court Judge Robert K. Barber has enjoined the union from forming anything but informational picket lines outside the fairgrounds.

Fair board general manager Lee Hall, who had threatened to cancel the fair Friday if pickets kept workers from preparing for the June 27 opening day, said the fair will open as scheduled.

Cooper said "the union fully knows that the county cannot legally enter into binding arbitration. Elected officials cannot legally delegate their authority to persons who may not even live in the county and have no responsibility to justify their actions to voters and taxpayers."

He said the board has answered a 15 page offer from the Central Labor Council "with a detailed offer of similar length." The board, he said, is waiting for a response to that offer.

Cooper refused to elaborate on the board's counter proposal, saying only that "it covered all the points given us the day before."

But union officials have charged the board with skirting the "bread and butter" issues of pay and fringe benefits, and trying to establish ground rules aimed "busting the union."

The board has passed a salary ordinance with a 4.2 per cent pay and fringe benefits package for members of Service Employes International Union locals 250, 535 and 616. The union is demanding a 7.6 per cent package they claim matches one given management in the same salary ordinance.

Cooper said he "would hesitate to say whether we're closer (to a settlement) today than last Friday."

By the end of the week, non - management attendance had risen to 65 per cent of the 7,326 rank - and - file workers, 10 per cent more than when the strike first began.

Cooper claims about one-third of the strikers "are not working because they don't want to cross the picket lines."

But union officials refuse to accept the county's estimate. They claim management has been shifting non-strikers from office to office in an attempt to make the strike look weak.

Murray board eyes 680 span

A proposed Highway 680 overcrossing, and its affect on Murray schools, will be discussed at Monday night's Murray School District board meeting.

Trustees will convene at Wells Intermediate School, 6800 Penn Drive, Dublin, at 8 p.m.

The Murray board went on record several years ago as supporting an overcrossing, which would facilitate student traffic to and from both Lydiksen and Donlon Schools. The City of Pleasanton has reportedly sought Murray support for the Stoneridge overcrossing.

Donald Savery will make the presentation on an overcrossing.

The Murray board will also review a 16 - page report dealing with the Resource Teacher Evaluation.

The report makes six recommendations, including;

1) The program structure should be suited to the needs of each individual school.

2) Each resource teacher should have an appropriate working space for the program developed at the school.

3) A supply and materials budget should be established for the resource teacher staff.

4) Workshops established in the district should be available to classroom teachers as well as resource teachers.

5) A "resource teacher newsletter" should be published so information on all programs can be shared throughout the district.

Trustees are also scheduled to adopt a resolution accepting the Dolan school site in Silvergate and authorizing payment to McGuire and Hester, the contractors.

The final budget draft will also be reviewed by board members.

VA Hospital staffer, LARPD vet retires

LIVERMORE — Les Knott is a big, booming man whose hearty manner somehow seems too large for the narrow corridors of the Vets' Hospital, where he works.

Nor does Les seem right with his long legs hidden by the "modesty skirt" on the directors' table at Livermore Area Recreation and Park District meetings. He's been sitting at that table for 20 years now, planning tennis courts and stadiums and soccer fields for Livermore's growing population.

And he's been doing it with a heart that sometimes makes Robert's Rules of Order, microphones and modesty skirts seem like tinkertoys for the small - minded.

It's not hard to imagine Les belting a golf ball, or toting a rifle through the woods, or hunching over a campfire frying up some fresh caught fish.

And it's really no surprise to learn those are exactly the things he can hardly wait to do, come Friday when he retires.

As a recreation director in the early days of his Vets' Hospital career, Knott used to lecture patients on how to retire.

"I'm breaking one of my biggest rules," he reveals with an impish grin. "I'm retiring at the same time as my wife, Erna, who has been a Livermore teacher for 24 years.

"But," he rationalizes, "she never teaches summers. So the impact won't hit her til next fall.

"By that time, I'll be adjusted."

Not that the irrepressible outdoorsman will have any trouble adjusting. He can hardly wait for the end of the month, when he'll be heading to Monterey with his brother to golf at Pebble Beach.

Then it will be off, mini - camper in tow, for some fishing and hunting Erna comes too, to read or crochet by the campfire while Les is off chasing big game.

Friday will be the day Les takes home the piles of certificates of appreciation, the "Executive Pencil Box," the photo cube full of pictures of his grandson, the crepe paper nut cup and all the other mementoes that have been piling up in his office for 24 years.

That is how long he's been in Livermore, joining the local facility in 1952 when the big white hilltop hospital had 600 tuberculosis patients.

Armed with a degree from Wayne State Teacher's College, five years' experience directing physical education and recreation for the Army Air Force, and a year's background operating his own sporting goods store, Knott first became athletics director of a VA hospital in Vancouver, Wash.

He transferred to Livermore in 1952 and worked as chief of recreation.

It took a staff of 12 recreation workers to entertain the TB victims. There was no TV then at the hospital; but there was an in - house radio station which still operates today.

Taping "Man on the Sheet" interviews with bedridden patients added pizzaz to their news shows, Les remembers.

Although TB has been nearly eradicated, and several hospital buildings have been torn down because of earthquake regulations, the Vets facility on Arroyo Road is still a big hospital. It boasts 191 beds (Valley Memorial, the local community hospital, has 108) and a clinic that handles 160 outpatients per day.

The Livermore hospital serves veterans from Stanislaus, Tuolumne, Amador, San Joaquin and southern Alameda Counties.

Les has all these facts at his fingertips, since part of his current job is working with the news media as public relations director. He is also chief of a huge volunteer services effort that involves members of 33 different organizations in planning recreation for the patients.

Outside of work, Les has raised three children, helped to launch the PTA's at Junction and East Avenue Schools, helped to build LARPD's Camp Shelley at Lake Tahoe, served as first president of the Twin Valley District, Boy Scouts, served on the cerebral palsy organization as a director, umpired countless baseball games ... and that's just a sample.

After their own three children were successfully launched in the world, Les and Erna did something that gave them a great deal of quiet satisfaction — they anonymously donated $100 a month for three years, through Our Savior's Lutheran Church, to put a boy through seminary school.

How does he do it? "Make the best use of the time you've got," he ad-

New Mormon church

Construction is proceeding on a new Mormon two-ward church next to Dublin High School on Village Parkway, with completion slated for November. The 18,500 square - foot structure will consist of classrooms, a chapel and cultural hall on four acres. Bishop Ralph J. Lauper will preside over the San Ramon ward, and Bishop Robert Porter will officiate over the Dublin ward, with combined membership of 1,200 expected. The church will cost $1 million to complete, a spokesman said.

Livermore eyes low-cost rent

LIVERMORE — An application submitted to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that would enable tenants of Hillcrest Gardens to pay rent only equal to about 25 per cent of their income will be reviewed by the city council Monday night.

The application was submitted by Interfaith Housing, Inc., which sponsors the low - income housing project for the elderly and handicapped at 550 Hillcrest Ave.

The council will meet starting at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Court Chambers, 39 S. Livermore Ave., to study the application and other business matters.

According to information supplied by Interfaith Housing, Inc. to HUD, the requested subsidy program would not affect the marketability of the Hillcrest Gardens units but would make more income available for the residents on low, fixed incomes and allow them to improve their standard of living "which currently borders on the poverty levels established by the federal government."

The application has been reviewed by Emanuel Gorland, the city's community development director, who deemed the program a worthwhile one.

"The present HUD minimum approved rents are $92 per month for an efficiency, and $113 for a one - bedroom apartment," Gorland's report notes. "Many tenants are paying much more than 25 per cent of their income.

"At present, if a person has an income, for example, of $200 per month, she would be required to pay $92 rent for an efficiency, or 46 per cent of income."

Gorland explains that under HUD's Section 8 program, which is being applied for, that same tenant would need only pay $50 per month for rent with HUD paying Hillcrest Gardens the difference, or $42 a month.

In other business scheduled for Monday night, the council will hold public hearings on adjusted business license tax surcharges.

SR trustees to talk pay pact

SAN RAMON — San Ramon Valley Unified School District trustees will consider adoption of the 1976-77 certificated and classified salary schedules at Monday night's board meeting.

Trustees gather at the Education Center, 699 Old Orchard Drive, Danville, at 7:30 p.m.

The administration has recommended adoption of both schedules.

Under instructional items, the board will hear summaries of district alternative education programs prepared by staff members at Neil Armstron, Stone Valley, Rancho Romero and Alamo.

A host of policy items await action, including maternity leave, teacher protection, supervision of student organizations, supervision of student dances and other activities and supervision of of interscholastic athletics.

The "Taxpayers Together" group has asked time to discuss property values in relationship to the district's budget.

Trustees will also act on the resignation of two district speech - therapists and four requests for leave of absence.

vises. "Set priorities. Do the things that are important to you."

Planning wisely and being satisfied with your limitations are two other bits of advice Les has been trying to give others for years, and which he and Erna plan to take themselves.

With their home paid up, the couple know they can live on their retirement incomes and do some of the traveling they enjoy.

This fall, it will be off to Les's birthplace of Loretto, Neb., to help celebrate his mother's 92nd birthday.

The fifth of eight children, Les is looking forward to seeing his many relatives again on the ranch where he grew up.

Then there will be a trip to Alaska to hunt moose and caribou and bear. And perhaps a trip to northern Europe. The Knotts visited their son in Malaga, Spain, last year and toured the southern part of that continent.

Even a visit to the Holy Land is somewhere on their list of priorities.

Les contemplates his approaching liberation with a big, delighted laugh.

"I think," he confides, "I'll wonder how I ever found time to work!"

MEREDITH LABORATORIES OF CALIFORNIA ANNOUNCES MIRACILLIN, NEW NATURAL MIRACLE FOOD

Middle Aged Mother Has Stamina and Energy Now

"I'm no Billie Jean King," said 44-year-old Doreen Dashford, mother of two active boys, "but since taking Miracillin I have more energy and stamina than I had when I was ten years younger!"

CALORIC REDUCTION CAN RESULT IN WEIGHT LOSS

NEW YORK, NEW YORK: The natural ingredients in Miracillin, already believed to protect the body against many serious illnesses, may also offer a new kind of weight loss possibility — losing weight without eating less!

One of the causes of overweight is thought to be the fact that the average American diet allows 97% of its calories to be absorbed by the body.

Reports have shown that the natural ingredients in Miracillin reduce that calorie absorption to 86%.

A NATURAL WAY TO BANISH THE BLAHS?

PALOS VERDES, CALIFORNIA: "Doctor, I'm so tired . . ." That phrase is becoming all too familiar. But most of the time there is no real medical reason for this feeling of lack of energy, boredom, listlessness — the "blahs".

And, since there have been more and more tragic cases of amphetamine addiction in man's effort to supply himself with energy, more scientists are carrying on research into safe, natural, energy-producing foods. It has always been felt that Nature contained an abundant supply of powerful energy, if man would only use it.

Now, Meredith Laboratories Distributors, Inc., has dipped into Nature's well of energy and has harvested the ingredients in a new "miracle food" called Miracillin.

Even though it's taken in small, teaspoon-size measures, users report that the ingredients in Miracillin seem to give a feeling of an immediate burst of energy, a feeling of vitality and well-being.

Some people say that, throughout a busy day, this feeling of strength, stamina, and "body power" seems to last, bring a healthy, happy effect on their daily activities. It's a "feel good, do good" chain reaction that may be attributed to the abundance of energy food ingredients in Miracillin.

RUNNERS NOW ABLE TO BEAT BEST TIME

Young, active health enthusiasts like David Kane and Linda Beuschel are really into exercise and health foods.

Meredith Laboratories Distributors, Inc., wondered what they'd think of Miracillin. After taking it for two weeks, Dave said, "I've been jogging for fifteen years, usually 8 miles a day. After taking Miracillin for one week, I did my fastest 8 miles ever."

Relief of Hay Fever Symptoms Possible?

When Benjamin Zev mentioned he'd suffered from hay fever allergy all his life, Meredith Laboratories Distributors, Inc., were very interested in his reaction to Miracillin.

"I stopped sneezing! I don't believe it — but I've been taking Miracillin for a month now, and I've hardly sneezed at all — for the first time in my life!"

Miracillin Natural Miracle Food

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA: Today Meredith Laboratories Distributors, Inc., in a report sent to the Surgeon General of the United States, announced the development of Miracillin, a new, natural miracle food. The report stated that the ingredients in Miracillin may aid in the prevention of heart attacks, many types of cancer, and a host of other diseases common in America.

Independent scientific and medical research also indicates that the ingredients in Miracillin may also lead to the prevention of symptoms of the common cold.

Additional research may evidence that just 2 ounces of Miracillin a day added to the diet may result in significant weight reduction.

"Miracillin's benefits are so extraordinary that it is almost impossible to believe them at first," stated Barry Marantz, President of Meredith Laboratories Distributors, Inc. "But they are supported by significant independent scientific and medical opinions. That is why we call Miracillin a MIRACLE FOOD. There is no other way to describe it."

There is a growing concern in the medical profession that the foods Americans are eating may be harmful to their health.

Modern man has processed, ground, bleached and added chemicals to food until it has so changed, that instead of being natural and nutritious it may actually be slowly poisoning our bodies.

Meredith Laboratories Distributors, Inc., has been searching for the pure natural ingredients missing from our modern diet. "Almost by accident we rediscovered them; and Miracillin is the amazing result," said Mr. Marantz.

Doctor Feels Better, Has More Energy

"Yes, I do feel better . . . I seem to have more energy."

Although he could not professionally endorse any product, Dr. Benjamin Shell was asked to try Miracillin to see if he could feel any effects. "Yes, I do feel better," he said after using Miracillin daily for three weeks. "I seem to have more energy — I'm not as tired at the end of a hectic day.

"I once missed taking Miracillin for two days and I felt a distinct 'let down'."

Bringing the university into town

A program enabling valley residents to earn a Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Administration by taking classes locally — rather than commuting to distant university campuses — is being tailored for the community.

California State University, Hayward, has been authorized to offer off-campus all of the upper division course work required for a BA in Business Administation. The degree would come from the Consortium of California State University and Colleges.

Lower division work can be completed through the Chabot College valley campus.

Starting off the program is a community-wide survey being coordinated by Jan Foster of the Livermore-Pleasanton branch of the American Association of University Women to assess valley interest as well as three upcoming courses.

The first, "Minority Groups," will be offered this summer. The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays starting Monday, June 21, to July 29, from 6:40 to 10 p.m. in room 317 of Livermore High School. Students may register at the class Monday.

The fee for the four-quarter unit course is based on Cal State, Hayward's, summer session schedule and will be $89.

The course is accepted toward meeting elective general education requirements for the business degree, as well as many other degrees on the Hayward campus.

Two businesses classes are planned for the fall quarter and will be taught at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and one of the city's high schools.

Fees for these off-campus courses will be in the range of $34 per quarter unit because the external degree program is self-supporting.

However, pointed out Dean Detweiler of Hayward's continuing education department, costs will be saved in the form of both commuting and time.

Upper division classes towards the BA degree in Business Administration will be offered both aduring the day and night as well as in eight-hour sessions on alternate Saturdays for five Saturdays — all depending on the results of the community wide survey and the valley's needs.

The program has received the support of the Lawrence Livermore and Sandia Laboratories for its employes but additional community participation is needed.

Classes must have a minimum of 20 students but there is no maximum. If a course has a large number of people attending, it can divide into two sections with an additional instructor hired.

Pamphlets detailing the program are available at the personnel departments of Sandia and LLL, valley libraries, and on the campus of Chabot and Cal State, Hayward. Questions about the program can be answered by Detweiler, 881-3605, and Chabot is accepting appointments with its conselors for transcript and credit evaluations. That number is 455-5300 and appointments are available for both day and evening hours.

Lower division work, including general education requirements, can be taken through Chabot which has no fees for its courses.

A person who has completed all of the lower division requirements could finish the upper division degree requirements in less than four years by taking two courses per quarter.

Many employes may be partially reimbursed for their studies and are advised to contact their companies' personnel department for details.

The community - wide survey to assess the valley's needs and interests in the external degree program is expected to be distributed to LLL and Sandia employes, Chabot summer school students, and at least 3,000 valley residents at large.

It will question degree objectives, lower and upper division credits completed, whether employers offer reimbursement, and convenient times of days for taking classes.

If the external BA Degree program in Business Administration proves successful, degrees in other fields may be offered as well as a Master's Degree in Business Administration.

El Charro can build in Dublin

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — County supervisors last week approved a zoning change that paves the way for an El Charro restaurant in downtown Dublin. The board voted unanimously to rezone a three - acre parcel at the bulb of Regional Street across from the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge. The restaurant, which will take up only a portion of the large lot, will be sandwiched between the Liberty House store and the warehouse.

The land, formerly zoned for light industrial use, now is designed for general retail, heavy commercial and wholesale use.

The county planning commission had recommended the change, while the planning department argued to restrict use to general business.

No opposition was voiced before the board.

The El Charro restaurant will be a 5,000-square foot, Spanish - styled building with another 1,000-square foot open but heated interior courtyard.

The restaurant and bar, estimated to cost $500,000 and to seat about 250 patrons, will open in eight months to a year, according to a spokesman.

The owners currently operate an El Charro restaurant specializing in "Texas-style" Mexican food in Lafayette.

'Now, now, Mr. Finch'

Nick DiScala, as the scheming and irrepressible "Finch," begs the assistance of "Miss Jones," played by Lorna Trimmer, in this scene from "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," a production of the Amador Valley school district's summer session dramatists. Students are still needed for the orchestra. For information, call Harry Sweet at Amador Valley High, 846-2818, between 8 and 11:30 a.m. Adele Denny is directing play. Play dates are July 22, 23, and 24 at 8:30 p.m. (Times photo)

Staley wants shelter entrance

LIVERMORE — Championing the rights of tax-paying, animal-loving citizens, City Councilman John Staley has directed a request be made for a separate entrance to the Alameda County Eastern Animal Control Shelter at the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center.

The recommendation, which asks that either the common entrance to the animal shelter and the jail facility be re-done or the shelter relocated, will be sent directly to the Alameda County Board of Supervisors with a copy to Sheriff T.L. Houchins.

Staley had registered protests with the county that citizens going to the animal shelter were required to present identification.

His remarks were answered in a two and one-half page reply from Sheriff Houchins who explained the necessity of requiring identification at the access road leading to both the animal control and jail facilities for purposes of security and restricting the entry of contraband.

The sheriff's letter concluded, "It may even appear that locating the animal shelter on jail property was a poor decision, but when one considers the large amount of tax dollars saved by the support functions afforded to the shelter by Santa Rita, the necessity for identification of guests to the shelter at the gate is a small price to pay."

Snapped Staley when the matter was discussed at the council meeting Monday night, "These aren't guests — these are taxpayers."

He pointed out most people object to being required to furnish identification when using a regular county facility. "It's self-deafeating to require this kind of identification and rigmarole," he added.

The council Monday night also directed the ordinance outlining the disposal of unclaimed lost and found articles be repealed and replaced instead with a policy prepared by the city attorney's office for the police department's use.

The new policy will require the finder/ claimant of property to share newspaper advertisement costs with the city and pay a minimum storage fee of $5 for property valued over $10.

In other business, the council:

- Directed the Scenic Highways Element to the city's General Plan be adopted and the Noise Element be refered to the city attorney and a professional editor for review.
- Authorized a one-year lease extention for the Public Works and Community Development Departments at a new rate of $760 a month, up from $700.
- Continuted to the capital imporvements budget study session June 26 consideration of a recommended street resurfacing program with the balance of funds remaining from an earlier bid.

Granada High grad is new state dentist

William G. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Anderson of Livermore, received his DDS in graduation ceremonies of the University of California School of Dentistry a week ago Saturday at Cal's Zellerbach Auditorium.

Anderson is a 1968 graduate of Granada High School. He graduated from the University of California in Berkeley with a degree in biological sciences.

Anderson and his wife, Linda, will take up residency near Santa Cruz as he will begin practice in association with Dr. Jahn in Ben Lomond.

Nicholson's proposal sweeps through Senate

The Youthful Violent Offender Act, originally put together by deputy district attorney George Nicholson and the Alameda County District Attorney's office, was approved on a 27-0 vote by the State Senate Thursday.

The measure, SB2013 by Sen. Randolph Collier, cleared the upper house by the necessary 27 votes and now goes to the Criminal Justice Committee in the Assembly. It will be heard in early August.

Under the bill, 16 and 17-year olds charged with certain felonies would be given a hearing in adult court to determine if they should be tried there or in the juvenile court system, said Robert Hampton, a Collier aide. If tried in adult court, the juvenile could be sentenced to state prison.

Nicholson, a valley resident, said the bill, originally introduced into the Assembly by Alister McAllister of San Jose, has almost 40 co-authors now and has been endorsed by 19 grand juries statewide. It has received widespread support from other school, community and governmental groups.

Del Valle headed for record crowd

In May 45,268 people visited Del Valle, and 302 people were turned away on Memorial Day.

Smith said that during May 1,658 boats were registered at the 750-acre lake. The overnight family camping area, with 109 sites, logged 844 "camper nights."

Del Valle, a 3,445-acre park, is located eight miles south of Livermore.

On Memorial Day park officials had to turn away 110 persons arriving at the park by car; 117 were turned down by telephone; and 75 were turned away by signs indicating the park was full.

Smith said that despite the dry year, the lake is only seven feet below normal. Many other recreational area lakes have been so far below normal levels that activities have had to be curtailed, Smith reported.

No reservations are taken for the family campgrounds. Use is on a strict "first come, first served" basis.

Get off your case and go

You'd like to go on vacation, but the thought of making travel plans, hotel reservations, packing half a dozen suitcases, and heading off to a place you've never been before is enough to make you spend another vacation in the backyard at home?

Chris Lehre, co-owner of Dublin Travel, reminds you that your travel agent can take the trauma out of travel. She offered some advice this week to members of the Amador - Livermore Valley Exchange Club.

Most people, she said, don't realize the various services a travel agent performs. An agent can order and obtain your airline ticket for you well in advance of your flight.

Your agent can reserve hotel accommodations, arrange for a rental car, book your cruise or tour.

"We're dealers in dreams," Lehre said. "Most people think travel is a romantic word. But travel can also be an emergency or a business trip."

Lehre said a travel agent must be an authority on everything. "We have to know everything from the weather in Honolulu in December to when it's the rainy season in Tahiti. We've got to be able to tell you what documentation you'll need to carry and what's the best connection from San Francisco to Teheran."

A travel agent's job sounds glamorous, Lehre allowed, but "when you get down to the nitty-gritty, the detail involved is unbelievable."

"Oh sure, we get to travel," she said, "but when we arrive in a city the first thing we do is run around and see all the hotels. We've got to know how the service is so we can learn what to recommend to the traveler. A hotel could have been fantastic two years ago, but a lot can happen in that time."

Fares, rates, hotels and areas change constantly, and the travel agent must keep up to date.

"Education is vital for a travel agent," said Lehre, who will be attending International Tariff School in London this July. "Most of the time I'm there I'll be studying changes, learning how to route a passenger at the most convenient time with the best carrier for the lowest fare."

Lehre offered a number of tips of travel.

On packing: There's no need to cram everything you own into a suitcase and sit on it till the case closes. "Everyone — even travel agents — over packs," said Lehre.

To avoid that, coordinate your wardrobe to include the basics, adding accessories for accent. You don't really need six pairs of shoes.

Place an empty airline travel bag in the bottom of your suitcase. You can use it to carry back the goodies you purchase while travelling.

Throw in a number of empty plastic bags — just the thing to use when you want to take one more dip in the pool before you leave and there's no time to dry the suit.

Choose luggage that is lightweight, and be sure all baggage is tagged. New Civil Aeronautics Board regulations require all luggage to be identified with the owner's name.

On tours: "Most travelers think a tour is for people who want to be herded around all day," said Lehre. "But tours are prepaid packages that include airfare, hotel, and car or sightseeing tour — often at reduced rates." Tours can be tailor-made to your needs.

On documentation: Your travel agent can advise you on what forms of identification (passport, visa, tourist card, vaccination certificate) will be required in the places you plan to visit.

On tipping: Tipping is here to stay, Lehre said. The going rate is 15 per cent, both here and abroad. Your travel agent can tell you who and how much to tip on a cruise or in other special circumstances.

Travel agents, Lehre said, work for both the travel industry (airlines, hotels, steamship companies, car rental agencies) and the public.

There's little about travel your agent doesn't know — or can't find out, Lehre said.

So next time the logistics of planning a vacation give you a pain in the passport, you'll know where to turn for help.

Chris Lehre, you talked me into it.

— bye, Karen Boyle

Record Chabot graduation

Chabot College held its 15th commencement exercises Saturday, June 19 for the Class of 1976's record 1,525 candidates for the Associate in Arts degree.

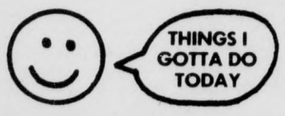

The ceremony was staged at the Chabot College Community Auditorium in Hayward.

In addition, more than 200 students earned Certificates of Achievement or Completion for study in specialized areas.

Donelle Barnes, a pre-nursing major and student body treasurer, spoke for the graduates. President of the Faculty Senate Ray Edwards spoke for the faculty.

Father of the Year

He sets a good example and prays

By REINA WHITNEY

"If you can't reach your children by talking to them, no amount of 'clubbing' or punishing is going tg make them behave," says this year's nominee for Father of the Year, Enrique "Rick" Santos of Dublin.

The most effective form of discipline for his nine boys and one girl, as far as Rick is concerned, is "example and respect."

The good example of an inspiring religious background that has kept his children close to their parents' church, involving them in all of its activities and kneeling down every night to pray together, prime deterrent has been a to problems in the Santos family. This, and respecting the rights of others.

Banter, hugs and mutual respect plus 35 years learning

Rick has been married to his wife Mary for 35 years. They are both natives of Guam and all but two of their children were born there. His Navy duty has allowed him to touch all four corners of the world, but they fell in love with the Amador Valley while they were stationed in the Bay Area and living in Komandorski Village.

When he retired from the Navy eight years ago, as a Master Chef after having served 26 years, they decided on a four bedroom home on Larkdale Avenue in Dublin as their permanent home. Only one son wasn't living at home by that time, so that meant 11 people had to be housed.

Retirement for Rick hasn't meant living under a shade tree in his back yard. He is employed in the Pleasanton City Hall where workers there comment on his "ever-smiling face." They say "he always seems to be at the end of the hand that reaches out to help someone else over troubled times."

His artistry as a chef (he was a cook in the Navy) has served his friends and his family well. The Charles Auer V.F.W. Post and Auxiliary, which nominated him for this year's honor, more than once have been beneficiaries of his expertise as cook.

The custom of praying together every evening is a carry-over from the habits of a lifetime while living on Guam Rick says that on his native island, which is only 30 miles by 12 miles big, the Angelus bell rings every evening at 6 and all the children race home to pray with their families. The Santos family has simply perpetuated this cultural tradition.

Sometimes "Novenas" (nine days of special prayer) have been recited when the family has been touched by tragedy — like the time their son, Rick, Jr., was killed in an automobile accident, or when Frank was seriously ill with pneumonia, or when Mike was born with a serious problem.

He so firmly believes in the power of prayer that he attributes this faith in God's goodness for the blessings of his family.

One of his son's, Frank, has especially been touched by the spiritual emphasis within his household. Frank entered the seminary last year and has been studying with the Holy Ghost Fathers in Houston, Tex., hoping someday to be a missionary to the down-trodden.

It was because of Frank that his father Rick decided to go back to school. This was one way to get some extra income from his G.I. benefits of which he had never taken advantage. The excess money he sends to Frank to cover his expenses while he's away from home.

Surprisingly Rick has found out, "You can teach an old dog new tricks." He has been enjoying the Chabot College courses in U.S. History, Ecology and Environmental Protection. The self-enrichment he is now experiencing is a big bonus to Rick.

All of his sons have always been very involved in sports; a factor which their father always encouraged. The mantel of the fireplace of their attractive home has no more room for even one more trophy. Symbols of success in football, basketball, baseball and track are all there and all proudly displayed.

Rick believes that sports helps kids stay out of trouble. He has tried to attend all of their school's games. All of his attention is now being concentrated on his youngest son Jim, 13, who he feels has been kind of left out because his closest brother in age is 18. Jim has already distinguished himself with soccer honors. For two years he has been on the awarde winning Shamrocks which won the State Cup last year for the 12-year-olds and under and this year came in second for the 14-year-olds and under.

Rick Santos also believes that all children should live at home until they're either married or go into the service.

He now has six grandchildren. He tries to keep the close feeling within the family by frequent visits and a once-a-year picnic. The picnic includes all the in-laws and their families as well. This year they all met in a rerecreation park in Los Gatos.

Rick Santos' home in Dublin has always been a regular stop-over for his many relatives who come from his native Guam. This year he expects more than usual because of the disasterous typhoon "Pamela" which hit the island this month. Mrs. Santos' brother and other relatives have lost everything. Rick is already trying to round up resources to help those in need.

The warm feeling of a sincere smile; the friendly banter between father and son; the son hugging his father; the courtesy and respect afforded not only a visitor but to each other, are all symbolic of the familial sensitivity acquired over 35 years of hard work. Because Rick Santos knows it takes more than just mere accident to become "Father of the Year — 1976."

Single parents

Bill Steele of the Far East Kung Fu Academy will provide a demonstration of this traditional Chinese art at the June 23 meeting of Del Valle Parents Without Partners at the Livermore Library.

The public is invited to the 7:30 p.m. program. Parents Without Partners is open to single parents, with orientation for newcomers hosted each Sunday. For information contact Ed Wilkinson at 846-9095, George Metz at 455-1573, or call 433-0802.

Art in the Vineyard at Concannon today

The public is invited to spend a leisurely afternoon under the large shade trees of the Concannon Vineyards, sampling the select table wines of the vineyard, and mingling among artists and craftsmen at today's Art in the Vineyard show open from noon to 5 p.m.

The picturesque Concannon Vineyards, located on Tesla Road in Livermore, are the setting for the popular annual event sponsored by the Livermore Art Association. A wide variety of arts and crafts by valley artists will be offered for sale, in addition to continuous musical entertainment and demonstrations of various art media.

Special attraction is the "Fleece to Fiber" program by the Wayside Weavers and Spinners in which raw wool will be processed, dyed, handspun and crocheted. The Laughing Cricket Theater will entertain children, and free charcoal sketches of children will be rendered by Dorothy Gordon.

Common sense stops drownings

In the wake of three drownings in the valley last week, East Bay Regional Park District, operator of Shadow Ciffs where one youth drowned, has issued some "common sense reminders for people of all ages who will be around any waters this summer."

In issuing the advice, Frank Blazic, director of the district's aquatic activities, noted that "drownings do not have to happen. It's going to be a long, hot summer. There is plenty of cool water in the Bay Area for people to enjoy if they just use common sense and prudence."

Blazic cited these major factors relating to swimming and water safety in any area:

•When going to an unfamiliar park or any other water area, find out the basic ground rules by asking staff or reading printed material.

Find out what areas are designated for swimming; what the lifeguard hours are; what areas are unguarded, off-limits and dangerous.

If there are "No Swimming" signs — obey them, they're for your own safety.

•Don't overestimate your own ability to swim. If you're around water and can't swim, wear a Coast Guard - approved lifejacket or other flotation equipment.

•Don't drink alcohol or take other drugs, including some medications, before swimming. It is best not to swim after eating.

•If you're overheated, remember that the first plunge into a cool body of water is likely to be a shocker.

•Don't go alone into waters open and designated for swimming but not guarded — as at the Del Valle Regional Park lake. Pair off, use the buddy system, and keep track of each other.

•If you lose something in dangerous, restricted water — clothing, fishing equipment, model boats or anything — don't jump in after it. In East Bay Regional Parks, ask personnel to retrieve it for you.

East Bay Regional Parks staffed throughout the summer by Blazic's 55-member lifeguard corps seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. — and later if the weather is scorching — include Shadow Cliffs Regional Recreation Area off Stanley Boulevard between Pleasanton and Livermore.

Negative report

Editor, The Times:

I am taking this opportunity to write you concerning the article of June 9, 1976 by Pat Kennedy. It was a very negative report on "Great America."

Obviously Pat was not around when Disneyland or Disney World opened. I visited Disney World shortly after it's opening and experienced some of the delays which Pat exaggerated. When was the last time Pat was at Disneyland and had to wait in line for less than 10 minutes just to go to the bathroom? I won't even mention the long wait at the Matterhorn, Pirates of the Caribbean, or some of the other popular rides! I also would like to know where she finds cheap meals at these attractions?

I would say Pat Kennedy has a very childish judgement of the situation, but that would be unfair to all children. Children feel pure joy and excitement!

Give "Great America" the chance it deserves for trying to bring pleasure for the young and old. I have faith any problems they may have now will be worked out successfully.

Next time you send a reporter to do a story, please do our community a favor by sending someone with a little more enthusiasm and fair judgement.

Sportsmanship

Editor, The Times:

This is a reply to a letter published in The Pleasanton Times on Friday, June 11, 1976 headed "Bad news coach."

Knowing personally the coach involved in this so called "disgusting act," I wish the "letter-writer" would have come to me or to one of the other mothers on the team before she said things that were and are completely untrue and unfounded.

There is no man who cares for children more or who is more supportive of their needs than this special man. He spends his free time, willingly, with these boys, and in the beginning was totally alone in trying to form this group of fifteen rag-tag, squabbling, playful boys into a baseball team. He did it with all the affection and caring that he had in him and he has taught our boys the meaning of sportsmanship and fair play, something that was apparently lacking in this woman's upbringing.

I wish for all to come down to the Little League Park to watch some of our games and to see this man in action and to witness the bond between this man and "his" boys.

Still a winner

Editor, The Times:

I would like to thank all who voted for me in the Zone 7 election. Even though I lost I feel I'm still a winner. With no newspaper endorsement or political backing I received 4733 votes which is a true honor for a political unknown. And I ask all who voted for me to get behind Marguth, Kinney and Futch so that they may create "the impossible dream"; one valley united for the good of all.

And for those that didn't vote for me: I'm not going to pull a Nixon on you and say, "You won't have me to kick around any more," because you will. So you'd better get used to me. I'll be back in two years, and I won't quit until all the do nothing, fat cat politicians get up off their butts and do something or get out.

Ken Hart

Credit to Valley

Editor, The Times:

I want to thank your paper for its objective and fair reporting of the Zone 7 campaign, and in particular, I would like to compliment Karen Boyle on her insightful handling of the issues.

I ran for re-election because I liked the job but also because I wanted to see a balanced Zone 7 Board. That is an absolute essential if this Valley is to proceed properly in the future.

Your endorsements, which included me, would have, if elected, maintained a good balance. The happy result of the election of two of your endorsees Archer Futch and Ed Kinney and the election of Gib Marguth results in a competent and balanced board. The best interests of the Valley's future are assured.

Thanks again for good reporting and your support. The new Zone 7 Board will be a credit to the Valley and that's what we all really want.

David W. Harris
Outgoing Chairman of the Zone 7 Board

Apathy adieu

Editor, The Times:

For those who have lamented the apathy of the electorate, let me tell you that June 8th is a day lo remember because it marks the date that apathy was buried in this valley. The voters, turning out in what must have been record numbers, made themselves heard from Livermore to Pleasanton; from Sunol to Dublin.

I felt it a privilege to be a candidate for Zone 7 and to receive the support that I did from so many concerned and dedicated citizens. I am proud that, with their support and the approval of a clear majority of the voters, I was able to gain a seat on the Zone 7 Board. Thank you all for your hard work, your support and your vote of confidence!

I pledge myself to work hard at being a good director, and promise to represent the best interests of the entire valley in seeking ways to make this an even better place to live.

Round the town

CHICHESTER — After a week of London, a journey into the English countryside is a must, if only to regain your perspective. For this particular journey, there was opportunity also to visit a very old cathedral, to partake of a very new theatre, and to relive a proud moment in British history. And, as with all things British, there was a common denominator for all three.

For one thing, there are the trains which stand ready to carry you out of King's Cross Station — or Waterloo or Victoria or God knows how many others — and swiftly into the great open spaces, interrupted only briefly by the many lovely villages and busy hamlets which surround this metropolis.

For another, there are the great armies of people who find reason to board those trains ... every minute of every day, or so it seems. People moving here and there, going to work, going to school, or going home again. I wanted to stop every tenth traveller and ask ... "Just where are you going, and why?"

But that is simply not done, not in England.

I did learn why many Londoners, and visitors from a thousand other cities in a dozen continents, travel to Chichester.

Here is a lovely little town. "A tourist attraction," we Americans might say. But Chichester is so very much more.

William Camden once saw Chichester this way: "The city hath four gates, opening to the four quarters of the world." He wrote that in the sixteenth century.

For Chichester was by then a city with some 14 centuries of history. We saw a piece of that early evidence, in the floor of Chichester Cathedral.

It was William the Conqueror who ordered the building of a great place of worship on land that had already been broken by Romans, and tilled by farmers.

The cathedral's foundation was first laid in the year 1075. Construction of the imposing edifice which still stands was undertaken in 1091.

"We suspect the Romans brought their own stone masons over from Normandy to do the work, for there was no such talent available among the local farmers," the rector explained to us. He talked also of "the great work that goes on even today" to save that beautiful building, for posterity, and for our enjoyment.

"Had the Romans only set their foundation down another five or six feet ... to below the clay strata that runs to about 22 feet ... then the building would not still be settling today, and we would not be faced with this continuing damage, and the cost," the rector told us.

The millions of pounds sought to preserve and restore Chichester Cathedral is only part of the story. There is the daily labor of cleaning the great nave and the dozen smaller chapels; and there is the staff of volunteers who greet the visitor, to sell you a small momento, or to thank you for any donation.

"It is a work of love, our love for God and our church," one woman explained, even as she kept up her dusting, and kept one eye on her small son who could demand only part of his mother's attention, when she worked in the Cathedral.

Throughout that church there are kneeling pads, one of the few modern concessions to the sensitivity of 20th century worshipers. And each of those kneeling pads is covered in needle point, each the work of some woman who saw this means of humble worship.

"The people of Chichester are very proud of their church," the woman with the dust mop and the small child explained. And having made that declaration, she left us to continue with her chores.

It would be impossible to describe Chichester Cathedral in this column, or even a dozen columns. The tributes laid in stone, the remembrances for those who served God and King one hundred, three hundred, even five hundred years ago. It is all there ku ee.

So also is the piece of mosaic, uncovered in one of the earlier efforts at restoring the cathedral. It is preserved today as it was found, some five feet beneath the cathedral's present flooring. That mosaic is traced to the year 270 AD, and is credited to the earliest Roman imprint upon this land.

Such is the history of one village, in one small corner of England.

About ten minutes walk from that church, through the heart of Chichester and along one of the malls that are closed to all vehicular traffic, there is found the Chichester Festival Theatre.

This theatre is notable because it is new, and because it is located some 90 minutes outside London. But that does not keep Londoners from joining the throngs that converge on Chichester each evening, to partake of its modern drama, even as other thousands come to recall the Roman conquest.

Our production this evening was to be "Noah," which recalls an even earlier drama of Biblical importance.

The star was one many of you will remember from "Upstair Downstairs" of Channel 9 fame. Gordon Jackson completed his five year stint as butler to the house of Bellamy to turn to "his real love." The role of "Noah" was his choice, and Chichester Theatre is his stage.

The critics note that "Jackson could have made a fortune on American television, capitalizing on his name." But he chose instead to lead a group of obscure performers onto a stage in far-off Chichester, getting little more than expense money for his efforts.

That too expresses the love that some English people still hold for their country and its people. It is one of this land's more enduring attributes.

The week in retrospect

Cutting the budget

It is quite possible that all sixth through eighth grade students residing in such areas as Vintage Hills, Amador Estates and Del Prado in Pleasanton will be walking to school starting in September.

And they might be joined by a goodly number of high school students in both Pleasanton and Dublin.

It remains for the respective school boards to make the final decisions on budget cuts but reduction of school bus service was a major item proposed by Dr. Bruce Newlin, superintendent of the Amador - Pleasanton districts, at Thursday's Pleasanton budget session.

A similar cutback might be proposed when Amador trustees gather Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Newlin's proposed cuts, which reflect a consensus of the management team (including principals), would take three buses now assigned to Pleasanton district busing out of service. The same number, along with a corresponding number of hourly employees (bus drivers), would be idled in the Amador district.

The proposal would NOT affect bus service for students in grades K-5 or those sixth through eighth graders who reside in Komandorski Village or the outer areas of Santa Rita Road.

After hours of figuring and resultant discussions, the budget was deemed to be $231,397 over what the district could afford in 1976-77.

Their is now a considerable possibility that trustees may have to cut some testing services ($2,000 saving, according to the figures announced by Newlin), towel service (estimated saving of $5,978), uniforms for maintenance and custodial personnel (estimated $9,700 saving), instrumental music instruction for K-5, two library aides, district support of Outdoor Education (estimated saving of $7,067), placing of a portable at Vintage Hills School, all audio - visual services received from county, one of three librarian positions in the district and 5½ full-time equivalent teaching positions.

Carl Krause, assistant superintendent for personnel, board president Al Dutchover and teacher Joe Goodrich got into a brief semantics tangle over the latter proposal. Because of the projected slight decline in enrollment, and the status of several temporary teachers, the district will not be dismissing or laying off any teachers.

Thus, if the number of full-time equivalent teachers for 1976-77 is approved, the Pleasanton roster will drop from 185 to 179.5 FTE instructors.

Two other major proposals advanced include a salary freeze for ALL personnel, certificated and classified, and a 10 per cent cut in discretionary funds.

Whether most or all of these management proposals for budget cuts are adopted remains to be decided In any event, decisions will have to be made in the next few weeks. Ditto Amador.

Community residents, teachers and classified personnel will get their opportunity to discuss Amador cuts at a meeting Tuesday at the district offices.

If the administration follows a pre-election fact sheet issued May 20 as closely as they did for Pleasanton, residents of the Amador district may be faced with not only less bus service for students but elimination of district funds for support of athletics and extracurricular activities (music, drama, speech, etc.).

Trustees might also be expected to consider no new hires for growth, which would increase class sizes at Amador, Foothill and Dublin in 1976-77.

School finance

When the state legislature tried to equalize the amount of money each school district would receive to educate the students in that district, there were several things they failed to take into account. One item, inflation, has placed Livermore in a dangerous position with regard to financing.

Livermore School District has been using deficit spending for the last few years. This means that we have been spending more money to educate our children than we have been taking in each year. Livermore has operated with a surplus of uncommited reserve. This is now being used to support the educational program offered to the student in Livermore. What will happen when this reserve is used up? We could very well go the way of other school districts who have wiped out programs, made drastic cut backs in personnel and offerings to the student. There is also the possibility that the district could go bankrupt as some other districts have, which has caused early closing of some schools. Time lost by students can never be made up.

This letter is not an attempt to scare the parents of students in Livermore. It is an attempt to inform some individuals where the school district could be headed.

There are a group of concerned men and women in the legislature who are trying to bail the schools out of this financial bind by introducing a bill to increase the amount of aid per student that the districts would receive from the state. This bill has already been cut in half from the amount Rhoda thought would allow the districts to continue with their present programs and there is no assurance that it will be passed in its present state. There is even less assurance that Governor Brown will see his way clear to sign the bill into law. He, in general, has been rather non-supportive of education.

I am sure there are some who will read this and argue that education is receiving enough tax dollars now. I feel it depends on where you place your emphasis. Billions of dollars are spent yearly on the various federal and state programs. I, for one, feel our children are our most important resource and to attempt to cut back on spending in this area is a grave mistake. There are some who will argue that more money does not naturally lead to higher quality education. This is true, but money well spent, to lower class size, to allow for more individual attention for the student and secure personnel to provide services not always found in schools does increase the quality of education

How can you, a parent or concerned citizen, help? Write to the following and let them know you are concerned about the future of education. A simple note, or better still, a one dollar telegram, asking for the passage of SB 1641 is enough. Let Governor Brown know that we care about kids.

Governor Edmund G. Brown, Executive Office, Sacramento, 95814; State Assemblyman S. Floyd Mori, State Capitol; Senator John W. Holmdahl, State Capitol; Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, State Capitol.

Upward trail

It became immediately apparent to me I needn't have worried about the discomfort of carrying a backpack. After hiking only 20 paces, my heart was pounding, my lungs were aching, and I knew I'd drop dead within a matter of minutes. Who had time to notice a little thing like the jabbing of a backpack frame that didn't fit digging into the small of your back?

The problem, of course, was the altitude, which nobody bothered to tell me about until it was too late. We were hiking from Tuolumne Meadows in Yosemite National Park to Cathedral Lakes, a four-mile jaunt which I confidently predicted prior to my departure would take about an hour or so to complete. That was before I came to understand what it means to start a hike at an altitude of 8,000 feet.

It means a period of adjustment for the experienced camper and some added exertion, not to mention heavy breathing. For someone like me, it means certain death. I was saved, however, by a friend who turned out to be in even worse condition that me. We banded together against the other five veteran hikers and bravely suggested they continue on without us. We'd get to the campsite before nightfall, we assured them. It was noon at the time.

Keep moving, even if it's at a slow pace, they advised us, looking over their shoulders, never breaking their stride. Okay, we said and immediately took off our packs and sat down as soon as they were out of sight. "Those guys are nuts," we agreed, a statement that before the end of the trip become our motto.

One hour, four rest breaks and a mile later, we rounded a bend only to find the rest of our group eating, sunning themselves, reading and waiting. Where have you been, they wondered. Hiking at a very slow, steady pace, we told them. The nuts had decided we all should stick together and they planted one of their own kind to keep up the rear.

I somehow managed to maintain the pace and ignore my protesting lungs — mostly by concentrating on the pain coming from my backpack and thinking about irony.

Following a lunch break one of the mountainmen ordained as allowable, it was decided a quick climb of Cathedral Spire would be in order. Cathedral Spire is an unusual formation of granite that reaches a height of 10,000 feet. Our brains affected by the lack of oxygen at the altitude, my friend and I decided to go along. Even with our backpacks removed, we fared about as well up the mountain as we did along the hike — frequent stops, gasping for breath, and exhanges of "Those guys are nuts."

"What do you girls do with your lives that you're in such bad shape," the leader taunted. Thanks to his encouraging words, my friend gave out — just plain sat down and told them she wasn't moving. Only asked they be sure and stop by for her on the way back. Something in me, however, snapped. Propelled by a got - to - show - them consciousness (hadn't I been hiking every weekend with the Sierra Club preparing for wilderness jaunts?) sheer determination got me to the top. Once there, I remembered my, well, if not fear of heights, something close to it. Thoughts of irony again crossed my mind.

I won't go into the details of the night spent camped at 9,250 feet where the temperature went down to 30 degrees and my down sleeping bag, after years of abuse, finally got its revenge. Suffice it to say I made it through the night by conjuring up images of my own warm, comforting bed.

The hike back, however, turned out to the most enjoyable part of the trip. I convinced the others it really wasn't a good idea to include me in the route they were taking which was over a pass close to Cathedral Spire's altitude and around some assorted lakes. (This time, however, something in my friend snapped because she did go with them.)

My solo adventure was marvelous. I took to a leisurely pace — four hours to do four miles — which included two naps in the sun and numerous stops to take pictures. When my backpack hurt, I kept thinking about my lovely shower and how great it was going to feel to take a bath and wash my hair. I also did some thinking about irony.

For Sunday, June 20, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Close companions may do things today that will displease and aggravate you. View their actions philosophically. No more will come of it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may be involved today with someone who has displeased you in the past. It's to your advantage to let bygones be bygones.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Circumstances could force you today to socialize with someone you'd rather ignore. Swallow your pride. Do it to please your mate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's advisable to camouflage your basic motives today. If there's something you're very desirous of doing, plant the seed. Let others water it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you have an important point to make to a person you esteem today, avoid a frontal approach. Sugarcoat it. She'll swallow it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Subdue your material drives today. Don't look for dollars you could accumulate, look for the good will and respect you could gain.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your tact and diplomacy will stand you in good stead today. If you get into an awkward situation, weigh it like a Solomon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Those less fortunate will tug at your heartstrings today. Sacrifice if necessary, but don't extend yourself beyond your means.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you find yourself up aginst one who is constantly demeaning others, try to convert him with humility. You can be an instrument to make him a better person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't envy another today who may have what you feel you lack. If he had what you have, he would be jealous of YOU.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Making a point is not nearly so important to you as losing a friend. Don't compromise your standards, but make sure they are valid.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're shopping today, seek quality, not price. The beauty of a selection should take precedence over the cost.

Bad luck haunts Airways

A 10th-inning wild pitch won the first game and Tom Underwood's pitching the second as Acme Fill swept a double header over World Airways Saturday at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill.

Acme blew a five run lead but survived the opener, 6-5, before Underwood and Steve Laughery combined to stop World in the nightcap, 3-1.

It looked as though Jim Snider's Acme club would have an easy time of it in the first encounter with Dennis Berger's Connie Mack representative as Snider's team scored once in the first and four runs in the third behind the steady to provide Snider's son Eric with a seemingly comfortable 5-0 lead.

Kevin Olson's sacrifice fly brought John Raeside home with the game's first run.

A wild pitch chased Raeside to the plate with the second run two innings later before Mike Tim Bruno unloaded a two-run double to up the score to 4-0 in favor of Acme Fill.

The team that wears identical uniforms as the Philadelphia Phillies tallied once more in the inning when Bruno stole third and scored when catcher Tim Shatswell's throw went into left field.

The younger Snider was coasting threw six innings of brilliant two-hit baseball when he suddenly lost some of the zip in his fastball.

Rich Palmer and Vance Rushing pounded back-to-back doubles to lead off the seventh, breaking Snider's shutout bid.

Rushing scored moments later on a fielder's choice off the bat of Bob Stoddard.

Berger's band followed up their two run burst with a single run the following inning.

After two were down, Charlie Bockaer, Palmer and Rushing stroked consecutive singles and Snider's comfortable 5-2 lead was cut to 5-3.

After Shatswell fanned leading off the ninth, Bill Jesperson singled sharply to set the stage for pinch-hitter Kelly Conrad. The bulky Conrad smashed a rocket over Keith Talamantez and the left field fence to knot the game at 5-5.

A double-play bailed Airways hurler Steve Stone out in the bottom of the innings, but Acme ended things in the tenth on Stone's control problems.

Bruno singled, went to second on a wild pitch and to third on Dick Williams' infield hit.

With Keith Talamantez at the plate, Stone unleashed a wild pitch as Bruno scored the winner easily.

Snider struck out 14 and didn't walke a batter while Stone fanned fiveand issued five bases on balls.

In the second contest, Acme scored one run in its first three at bats to thwart any chance for an Airways doubleheader split.

Underwood struck out five and was in control with a two-hitter until the seventh inning when he allowed three hits and a run.

Stoddard tossed a five-hitter for the losers, but lack of bat support proved the difference.

Acme Fill is 4-0 in league play and travels to Willows today for a twinbill while World Airways, 1-3, hosts Strehle Paints of San Leandro.

Tri-Valley gains ex-major leaguer

There will be an added attraction when the Tri-Valley Cubs tangle with I.O.F. at 11 a.m. today in a Northern California Baseball Association game at Graham Field in Francisco.

The Cubs hope to have the service of former major leaguer Ken Walters against I.O.F. Walters played for several seasons with the Phillies before rounding out his professional career with the old San Diego club of the Pacific Coast League.

"Ken will play right field, pitcher and do some designated hitting for us," Cub coach John McCuaig said. "He played right field in the majors."

Walters' son Larry, played baseball for California High School this past season.

Tri-Valley, 1-1 in league play, warmed up for today's clash with a 9-4 win over Galu Realty of San Francisco Thursday in the City.

Steve Vaccaro was the winning pitcher, fanning seven batters. John Prieto sparked the Cubs's hitting with a home run and two singles.

Prieto will start today's game with I.O.F. Graham Field is located in Big Rec Park near Kezar Stadium.

United seeks revenge

Ballistic United's under - 12 Soccer team warmed up for their upcoming trip to Canada by waltzing past Oakland under - 14 squad, 10-0, yesterday at Pleasanton's Aquatic Park.

The Pleasanton - based club, which will head for Toronto later this month, will play at Spartan Stadium today at 12:15 against the Lincoln Lawmakers in a premilinary match to the San Jose Earthquakes - Seattle Sonics Pro Soccer tilt.

The Lawmakers upset Ballistic in last year's semi - final State Cup tournament, so today's game will be certain to hold a little grudge match as well.

In yesterday's exhibition, the Ballistics scored five times in each half and used a balanced scoring attack to swamp the older Oaklanders.

Jamie Herwatt led the assault by scoring three goals and assisting on two others. Mike Nieto and Frankie Duarte each scored two goals, while Mark Andrews, Karl Kesterke and Mike Delaray contributed one apiece.

Ballistic opened up quickly in the first half, scoring in the first 30 seconds on a 10-yard goal by Nieto. Delaray scored 3½ minutes later from eight yards out on an assist from Nieto.

Herwatt scored his first goal at the 18-minute mark from 15 yards on an assist from Delaray, while four minutes late Kesterke chipped one in by the goal crease on another assist from Nieto.

In the second half, Duarte scored goals from seven and 6 yards on assists form Herwatt and Scott Strommer, while Nieto notched another goal from 10 yards on an assist from Kesterke.

Oakland romps on key homers

OAKLAND — Successive homers by Don Baylor and Billy Williams in the first inning started the Oakland A's to a 7-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Saturday.

Despite the early homers off loser Jim Colborn, 3-9, the A's trailed 3-2 going into the fifth inning when they scored four runs on four hits.

A bases - loaded walk to Gene Tenace forced in one run, another scored on a single by Bill North and Larry Haney scored one with a sacrifice fly.

The A's stole six bases. Baylor and Williams each had two and Phil Garner and Bert Campaneris had one each.

Hank Aaron accounted for one of the Milwaukee runs with his 751st career homer. It was his sixth of the season and fourth in the last six games.

The victory went to Glenn Abbott, 1-1, with help from Paul Lindblad, who blanked the Brewers over the final 32-3 innings.

The Brewers took a 3-2 lead with three runs in the fifth inning. Aaron led off with a double, one of his three hits in the game, and scored on a double by Bernie Carbo.

Sixto Lezcano singled and Darrell Porter also singled to score Carbo. A sacrifice fly by Gary Sutherland drove in the lead run.

The A's sent 10 batters to the plate in their four - run fifth. They got four hits off Colborn before Danny Frisella took over with a runner on second base and walked three batters to force in the final run of the inning.

The A's scored their last run in the seventh inning on a pair of walks, three stolen bases — two by Baylor — and a throwing error by catcher Porter.

Hustlers defeat Beauty

Buckley's Hustlers scored a run in the fifth inning to take a 11-10 win over C&C Beauty in Livermore Area Women's Recreation Softball Thursday.

The winners scored six runs in the first inning but C&C Beauty came back to tie the score with six markers in the third.

Win beepball game

Warriors show class

Those people who saw yesterday's "beepball" game between the Pleasanton Warriors and a local men's lob ball all-star team saw something quite different from a regular baseball contest.

The Warriors are composed of sightless youngsters. Thus, even playing the game is an achievement of note. What was even more impressive was the fact the Warriors won, 12-6 on the Pleasanton School field.

The men's lob ball team was blindfolded for the game. The beepball mades a beeping sound which guides the players' hitting and fielding.

In beepball the pitcher is the chief umpire. He is not a member of either team. When he releases the large softball he yells "ball" to make the batter aware of it.

When a player hits the ball one of the bases makes a steady beeping sound. He must reach that base before the outfielder touches the ball. If he does he scores a run. If the fielder gets the ball first it is an out.

Other unique rules include four outs per inning and five strikes for a strikeout.

But enough of rules.

Yesterday's contest was a victory for the human spirit. Just the expression on the youngsters' faces when they connected with the ball was proof the game meant something.

The Warriors showed they had plenty of power. The brother and sister team of Ricky and Diana Edwards combined for 10 home runs: Each player had five. Bob McMullen added two homers to the winners' attack. Sue Brennan and Dennis Strobridge also connected with the ball well.

A six-run production in the third inning was the key in the Warrior victory.

The lob-ballers scored two runs in the fourth to make the game reasonably close. Six different players got the home runs for the all-stars.

A world series may be in the works for the Warriors next season, according to coach Ed Talavera.

The top teams from different areas of the country will play in an elimination-type playoff.

That alone is motivation enough for the Warriors. However, win or lose the Warriors are champs.

They proved that yesterday.

Anger loses doubles final

Pleasanton's Matt Anger and partner Jim Heebner were walloped in their Northern California Tennis Association under-14 Sectional tournament doubles final Friday, losing to Mark McKean and Greg Holmes 6-0, 6-1 at Castlewood Country Club.

McKean, who garnered two titles as a result of his singles win over Craig Patterson, was just too overpowering for the pair.

Anger and Heebner, of Carmel, advanced to the finals by soundly destroying Evan Gelleri and Steve Shaun 6-1, 6-0 the day before. However, the "veteran" team of McKean, from Los Altos, and Holmes, from nearby Danville, showed their strength in the finals after an easy 6-0, 6-1 win over Lodi's David Neal and Modesto's Matt McCormick in the semi-finals.

McKean had a much rougher trip in his singles final match against Belvedere's Patterson.

Patterson won the first set by a slim 7-5 margin, and appeared headed toward an easy match - clinching second set win. He led McKean 4-0 in the second set before the Los Altos lad got the hang of it.

McKean swept the next six games to take the set, and won the title with a tough 6-4 win in the third set.

After doubling his victories in the doubles competition, McKean and his partner Holmes kept alive their three-year undefeated string.

Going into the singles competition early last week, McKean had been second - seeded, while Patterson was fourth - seeded. Patterson, on Thursday, knocked off top - seeded Dan Fowkes to gain the finals. McKean, on the other hand, swept past Ken Arnold of Los Altos 6-1, 6-0.

In girls singles competition, top - seeded Wendy Driver lived up to her top billing as she gained a 6-4, 6-3 finals victory over Tracy Houk.

Driver had defeated Piedmont's Shelly Preroch 6-0, 6-0 to advance to Friday's finals, while Houk rolled to a 6-1, 6-1 win over Sacramento's Marlee Rider.

Driver was impressive in her victory, fooling Houk largely on her ground strokes. Houk was second - seeded in the tourney.

In the doubles competition, Driver teamed up with Stacy Savides to win a 6-1, 6-4 decision over Andera Bohn and double - loser Houk. The two teams had been seeded 1-2 in the tournament.

Friday's play concluded the five-day tournament, which saw nearly 100 aspiring tennis amateurs vie for the top spots in the Northern California Tennis Association's annual tourney.

Anger, who entered the competition seventh - seeded, won his first match over Carmel's Anthony Galang on Monday before losing his singles match to Marco Lucey on Wednesday.

ago... on a transcontinental railway line

100 years ago, an engineer and conductor paused in Sunol for this picture.

This was the look of Livermore's S.P. Depot, and women's fashions, in the 1890's. Carriages wait beside the station to pick up passengers.

The Valley has been a bedroom community for a century — at least, in a small way.

The Southern Pacific Railway linked Livermore, Pleasanton and Sunol with Oakland. One commuter train puffed out of the station every morning and returned each evening with men who worked in the East Bay but preferred to live in the sunny Valley. Other trains steamed out of Livermore on their way to Stockton, the Sierra and the East.

Hard to believe the Livermore Station was anything but a restaurant... Actually, the stationmaster lived upstairs. Downstairs, you could buy tickets, send packages, transmit a telegraph. Under a covered platform, mail and parcels waited to be picked up by the passing trains.

There was parking for the horse - drawn surreys in the unpaved yard — under the locust tree, if you got there first.

Rich or poor, people had a reliable (if sooty) way of getting from here to there. And no BART tax, either.

Summer playground program under way

PLEASANTON — The recreation department summer playground program will begin tomorrow and continue until August 13 at five playground sites — Lydiksen, Donlon, Valley View and Fairlands Schools and Amador Park.

Program hours will vary from site to site, but the general format will be open playrgound from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. several afternoons a week, a movie and an excursion once a week.

The playground program is intended for children six to 12 on a drop-in basis.

The department says it has a group of "unusually well - qualified" playground leaders for the "1776-1976 Americana" playground program. Bruce Ede, a Cal State recreation major, will return to the staff for the fourth season. Phil Hansen, a Chabot student, will return for his second season and Linda McMillon, a junior at Fresno State, will be back for her third season.

Dan Mays, a recent recreation major graduate from San Jose State begins his first season. Steve Millard, majoring in recreation at Cal State Hayward will begin his first season and Jane Ross, a San Jose State junior in therapeutic recreation, returns for her second season.

Marjorie Pearson, a Junior in recreation at Chico State, will begin her third season and Nancy Ross, a recent Amador High School graduate, will return for her second season.

Eileen Morley will coordinate the playground program this year. Morley recently graduated from Cal State Hayward as a recreation major. She also is known in Pleasanton for her work in 4-H.

The 1976 playground season features excursions to Marine World, Great America, San Francisco Zoo and Fort Point, the Aquatic Center, Tilden Park and Nature Center, Santa Cruz Boardwalk and Fairyland.

The first big excursion will be to Marine World Africa USA, June 29. Children must pre - register at a playground if they wish to go on any excursion. Spaces are limited.

Cost for the Marine World excursion, which includes admission and transportation, is $4.25. Registration deadline is June 25.

Movies are scheduled weekly and this year a bonus list of feature movies has been reserved. Admission will be 25 cents per child.

Open playground a variety of games, activities, and crafts are planned. Most crafts will be free, but special craft projects may have a charge for the cost of supplies.

Residents may refer to the recreation department brochure which has been distributed in the community if they need specific information about schedules for the playgrounds. Each playground will have current information sheets and posters, permission and excursion slips ready for participants.

Parents are welcome to visit playgrounds any time, says the department.

Wobbling wedge

This is how energetic playground leaders look at the beginning of the summer playground season. The Pleasanton Recreation Department says it has selected a veritable all - star cast of leaders and they will be in the field from June 21 to August 13 at five playgrounds. (Times Photo)

Strike delay

Library visit tentative

Alameda County's library on wheels, the Bookmobile, was scheduled to visit some area neighborhoods this summer, but the visits have been delayed by the county workers' strike.

Chabot marketing survey

Shoppers prefer to browse

A survey of shoppers' attitudes shows that the majority of customers use cash, prefer to browse before clerk assistance, and chose stores on the basis of good quality at reasonable prices.

The survey was prepared by the Chabot College Marketing Club in May, and was rated as the number one marketing project for 1976 by the Calfironia Association of the Distributive Education Clubs of America.

Those interviewed were a cross section of students at Chabot College in Hayward during the autumn of last year, and were selected by a process whereby each student had an equal chance of being interviewed.

According to the survey, 65 per cent of those questioned preferred to "browse first, then ask for assistance when needed." Thirty - two per cent would rather "browse and then take my selection to a cash register," while the remaining 3 per cent wanted to "have a clerk assist me in making my selection."

The biggest reason shoppers chose to make purchases in certain stores was "good quality at reasonable prices (48 per cent). The remaining majority reasons included "convenient location," "better selection," and "low prices."

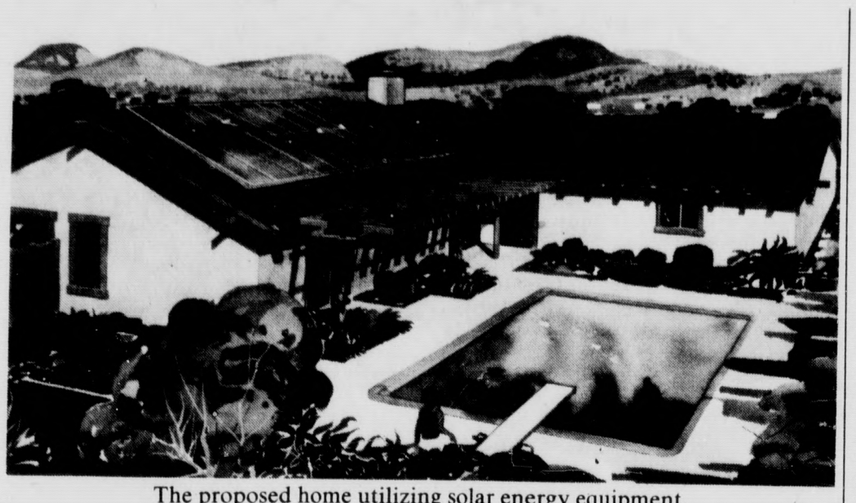

Seventy - three per cent of those shoppers surveyed preferred to use cash, with 18 per cent chosing an in-store credit card, with the remaining 9 per cent preferring the family's, rather than his own, store or bank credit card.

Most people get information on goods they buy from friends, with newspapers and shopping tied in a close second. After that comes family members, catalogs and salespeople.

Sixty - nine percent cent of people queried preferred to shop in a large shopping mall, assuming one is available, with those preferring a small neighborhood shopping center (20 per cent) and shopping in the main downtown shopping district (11 per cent) running second and third, respectively.

In addition, the survey summarizes that most people prefer to shop alone, on weekdays, and after noon, in the majority.

The proposed home utilizing solar energy equipment.

Work begins on first CCC solar home

By MARSHALL KRANTZ
Times Correspondent

WALNUT CREEK — Work began this week on the first home in Contra Costa County to utilize solar energy equipment as an integral part of the home's total design.

Solar energy will provide as much as 70 per cent of the annual space and water heating needs for the eight-room, single-story home in the Carriage Hills Development in Walnut Creek.

This according to Richard L. Larson, adminstrative assistant to the vice-president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., whose company, along with the Wooldridge Building Co. is building the home.

Scheduled to be completed this fall, the home will be open for about one year to anyone interested in seeing how solar energy works in a modern house.

Energy conservation devices and test results on solar equipment will be displayed in the garage.

Water and space heating needs in the home will be met by rooftop solar panels, with an electric heat pump to be used as a supplemental source for heating and cooling.

The home's special energy-conservation features include double-glazed windows and extra insulation.

The concept used to capture the sun's energy is actually quite simple—water is run through copper tubing in the panels and then stored in a tank for later use. A coil in the water tank transfers heat to ducts for space heating.

Equipment will be placed in the home to monitor the efficiency of the equipment and to evaluate the economic benefits.

PG&E has begun to look for alternative energy, according to Larson, because of diminishing natural gas sources and the cost of further exploration.

He did not rule out the possibility of PG&E going into the business of installing solar equipment.

Larson said the use of solar energy is a "realistic alternative" to natural gas in homes with built-in solar devices, but that fitting conventional homes with solar equipment is probably still too expensive to be workable.

Larson would not reveal the estimated cost of the demonstration home at this time, but promised to make public cost figures when the house is completed.

He did say, though, that this house would cost substantially more than future houses of its kind because of design and consulting fees and of monitoring device costs.

Julie Anglin

Pleasanton student Julie Anglin of Wingate Drive has been awarded a Study Grant to the 48th Annual Summer Session of the San Francisco Academy of Art. Academy of Art President Richard Stephens announced the award last week. The grant was given following an intensive two month competition involving art students throughout the west based on talent, creativity and merit. The program will enable Julie to gain educational experience under the guidance of the school's professional faculty.

Valley high schools cited for blood bank donations

OAKLAND — Dublin and Livermore High Schools were among a number of schools given awards of merit from the Blood Bank of Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association at a ceremony held recently.

Representatives of the Blood Bank presented the awards at a luncheon honoring the Alameda and Contra Costa high schools that participated in a program called "Operation Relay."

The awards acknowledged the schools' service to the community in the support of the humanitarian concept of blood donor volunteerism.

Operation Relay is a program designed especially for high schools and is completely organized and maintained by the students.

According to Sandra Nylander, director of Donor Recruitment for the Blood Bank, the response was far above expectaiotion. With 32 high schools actively participating, 5,300 units of whole blood were collected.

The Blood Bank serves all 34 East Bay hospitals. It must recruit more than 220 units of blood per day to meet the needs of East Bay communities.

The Blod Bank noted that lives of many East Bay residents were saved because of the efforts of students in Alameda and Contra Costa County high schools.

Parks district to auction surplus gear

Looking for a 1935 Chevrolet pickup truck or a fire engine? You'll find it up for auction by the East Bay Regional Park District in the Tilden Regional Park Corporation Yard on July 10.

Registration for bidders is 8 a.m. Auctioneer Wil Senior, Corporation Yard superintendent, will lift the gavel to begin the auction at 9 a.m.

Castoffs to be auctioned off include passenger cars, pickups and a van, boats and lifesaving rescue boards.

BORN LOSER

If you think things sometimes go wrong for you, you'll feel better after laughing at "The Born Loser" each morning in The Times comics.

So, what's new?

LIVERMORE — Six girls and two boys were born to local parents last week at Valley Memorial Hospital.

Sons were born on June 9 to Michael and Mary Hutchings of Pestana Way in Livermore and on June 12 to Ira and Diana Willie of North Livermore Avenue in Livermore.

Daughters were born on June 8 to Gary and Margaret Graham, Hagemann Drive in Livermore; Adrian and Jean Bertens, Windsor Court in Pleasanton; Noel and Molly Cooley, Mayview Way in Livermore;.

Born June 10 were daughters to Joseph and Glorian Crosslin, Tanglewood Way in Pleasanton and to James and Chirstine O'Connors, Santa Rita Road in Pleasanton.

A daughter was also born on June 12 to George and Librada Valencia, Komandorski Village in Pleasanton.

Livermore summer recreation

Youths invited to sign up

LIVERMORE — The Livermore Area Recreation and Park District's summer program of playground activities for elementary school age children will begin this Wednesday and continue through Friday, Aug. 13.

A daily program of sports, games, story hours, nature activities, excursions, creative dramatics, and crafts will be offered Monday through Friday. Children may attend for an hour, a day or five days a week at no charge.

Each playground will be staffed by two leaders experienced in working with children. All staff members have first aid certificates and have attended special ttraining sessions in preparation for the summer.

In addition to the daily playground activities, special excursions have been planned to Frontier Village on July 8, Great America on July 22, and the Oakland Zoo on Aug. 5.

The theme for the first week of playground activities is Say Hello !; second week, Independence Celebration; third week, Western Week, fourth week, Wild Wheels; fifth week, Country Fair; sixth week, Up, Up and Away; seventh week, Animal Kingdom, and eighth week, City Olympics. There will be appropirate events on Fridays at each playground.

Playgrounds, the hours they will be open and the leaders staffing are:

● Arroyo Mocho School, noon to 4 p.m. Valerie Doggett, a senior at University of Califiornia, Davis, majoring in environmental planning and management has worked three years for LARPD as a recreation leader. Valerie's enthusiasm and creativity are reflected in her craft and creative drama programs.

● Arroyo Seco School, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Curt Grayson, who will be a junior at Cal State, Hayward, majoring in psychology, has worked for the District since graduating from Livermore High School. Curt's artistic and athletic ability lead to a well-rounded pgrogram.

● Christensen School, 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Colleen McGaff, a graduate of Washington State University with a Master's Degree in speech, will return to the playground again this summer. Her special events are always high points of her playground program.

● Henry School, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Janet Collins will be a sophomore at Lewis and Clark College in Portland and has experience with LARPD playgrounds and day camps in San Francisco.

● Jackson Avenue School, 1 to 5 p.m. Barbara Hoblitzell will return to the playgrounds after completing her junior year at Humboldt State majoring in industrial arts. Barbara features music and games to compliment the arts and crafts activities.

● Joe Michell School, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Marcia Allen, a graduate of the University of Missouri with a degree in parks and recreation, joins the staff this year. She has experience in a variety of recreation areas and will bring newe ideas to the playground program.

● Max Baer Park, Jane Addams House, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sue Cupps, a junior at Sacramento State, has worked with both camps and playgrounds with LARPp. This background gives her a wide variety of experience which she will use in her crafts and games.

● May Nissen Park, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Ron Johansen, a recreation major at Cal State, Hayward, brings a variety of experience to the playground. His exposure to many recreation programs will lead to many different sports, games and special activities for this playground.

● Rancho Las Positas School, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Emily Burden will return to the playground after completing her sophomore year at San Diego State. Emily has experience in day camps and playgrounds.

● Recreation Center, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Charles Green, a senior at UC, Berekley, brings day camp and playground experience to the Rec Center program His outdoor skills will add to the crafts and games programs.

LARPD sets baseball for youths

LIVERMORE — A special, low-key league baseball program will be offered for youngsters who enjoy the sport at Joe Michell School starting Monday, June 28, through the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District.

Youths who have completed the first grade and have not completed the fifth grade are eligible for the baseball session which will follow two weeks of instruction on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 5 to 7 p.m.

The instruction fee is $6 and includes a hat and shirt. Participants must supply their own glove.

The program will be supervised by LARPD staffer Ron Mueller. Sign-ups may be made at the field prior to game time.

Del Oro 4-H signups slated in Livermore

Registration for Del Oro 4-H Club of Livermore is set Monday, June 21 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the home of Becky McCann, 689 Grace St., Livermore.

Parents are asked to accompany their children to sign registration cards. A $1 insurance fee per child is payable at this time, with new members asked to purchase a record book cover at 60 cents.

For further information contact Mrs. McCann at 447-5341 or Virginia Pimentel at 447-4025.

RESPA Action

Realtors Hear Good News

CHICAGO — The National Association of Realtors heard some good news on real estate legislation today from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Affairs (HUD).

Robert Elliott, HUD general counsel, told the realtors, here, what the 1974 Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA) was meant to accomplish, where it went wrong and what Congress had done to fix it.

RESPA was intended to provide home buyers with a better understanding of the settlement process, Elliott said, by requiring the mortgage lender to furnish the buyer and seller with a detailed statement of the settlement cost items two weeks before the actual closing.

The lender also had to provide an information booklet outlining the responsibilities of the various parties to the transaction. In some cases the seller was required to disclose cost information regarding the property.

Almost immediately, Elliott said, the law was attacked from all sides for placing an undue burden on the lender, delaying the settlement process and making it more difficult for the buyer to obtain a loan commitment. Most of the provisions of the law were repealed at the end of 1975.

The information booklet was not a major part of the problem, Elliott said, and is being retained under the new rules which take effect July 1, 1976. It is being substantially rewritten, however, he said.

The heart of the problem, Elliott told the realtors, was the advance cost disclosure requirement. That has now been abandoned, he said, and replaced under the new rules by a simple estimate of the costs, to be given the buyer at the time of loan application.

Other sections of the law designed to limit the amount of escrow accounts and to end speculation in homes not purchased for personal occupancy he termed "improperly drafted." They now have been satisfactorily redrafted, he said.

Of major concern to realtors was the section prohibiting payment of "unearned fees and kickbacks," with criminal penalties for violations. Realtors feared that the traditional broker - to - broker referrals and fee splits might be construed as involving "unearned fees."

"Such transactions have now been specifically exempted under the law," Elliott said. "Realtors are in the business of referring people to other people, and to remove that right would effectively curtail their legitimate business practices."

Evangelical

PLEASANTON — The Evangelical Free Church which meets in the Valley View School on Adams Way, has their Sunday school time set for 9:30 a.m. The Rev. Merle Aaker, pastor, will address the congregation at the 11 a.m. worship service with the message, "Is Your Home a Hotel?"

Trinity

PLEASANTON — Jim and Sheila Adams, lay missionaries from Brazil will be speaking at Trinity Lutheran Church, Hopyard Rd. and Del Valle Parkway, Pleasanton, June 24 at 7:30 p.m.

St. Philip Lutheran from Dublin and Trinity are co-hosting this event. The public is invited without charge.

KNOW YOUR FOOD

GOOD NUTRITION AT LOWER COST

Foods that abound in high quality protein ... beef, veal, lamb, pork, poultry, fish, eggs and cheese always make welcome main dishes. Thrifty main dishes often combine these protein-rich foods with vegetables or the bread-cereal group of the basic four food groups ... for example, beef stew with vegetables or dumplings, chicken with rice, fish with stuffing, cheese with macaroni. Dry beans and peas are also thrifty choices--with a little meat added they produce high quality protein meals. If a main dish is not high in protein, it's possible to supply additional protein with the other foods in the meal.

If, for instance, a pound of meat is to serve six or eight persons, you might combine it with vegetables in a casserole or stew. Add milk to the menu as a beverage and serve cheese-topped apple pie for dessert.

If you are making hamburgers, the meat can be extended for extra servings by adding bread crumbs, dry milk, eggs and fine-cut onions along with your favorite seasonings, of course. The dry milk and eggs also extend the amount of protein in the hamburgers.

The same thing holds true when you are making meat loaf. Adding eggs and dry milk provides extra protein as well as more servings.

Serving homemade noodles with chicken also pays protein dividends through the eggs used in preparing them. Homemade noodles aren't difficult to make. Check a good cookbook for directions and you're on your way to pleasing your family with something really tasty. Homemade bread, noodles, cakes, pies, rolls, etc., seem to be a popular way of saving money today. Besides, there is something so satisfying about "doing it yourself."
